

C.L. Brouwer, PhD

Charlotte Brouwer is medical physicist and team leader medical physics at the department of radiation oncology at the University Medical Center Groningen. Her clinical and research interests include auto-segmentation, adaptive radiotherapy and proton therapy of pelvic tumours. She is a member of several national and international working groups on the introduction of AI-based methods into clinical practice.