

Anne van den Hoek

Anne van den Hoek is radiation oncologist at the University Medical Center Groningen since 2013. Her special field of interest is head and neck cancer, skin cancer, proton therapy. She has recently finished a MBA in healthcare management. From the start of the Proton therapy Center in 2018 in Groningen, she is involved in the clinical implementation of proton therapy. Currently, as medical coordinator of the proton therapy center, she is responsible for prioritizing patients, efficiency, an optimal capacity and an interinstitutional collaboration.