

JusticeMatters

Justice: The Missing Infrastructure

PARTNERSHIP PROPOSAL

Justice Matters Conference 2027

The global economy is entering a period of profound transition. Economic growth is slowing, inequality is deepening, geopolitical tensions are reshaping markets, and technological change is transforming how people live and work. Businesses, governments and communities are navigating growing uncertainty driven by conflict, climate shocks, fractured supply chains, and declining trust in institutions.

Yet amid these challenges, one of the most powerful drivers of economic resilience remains largely overlooked: justice.

When people and businesses cannot resolve disputes, enforce agreements, protect their rights or rely on institutions, economic activity becomes more costly and risky. Effective, accessible and trusted justice systems help people and businesses manage uncertainty, invest, innovate and participate in the economy. Justice is therefore not only a matter of rights and the rule of law—it is part of the infrastructure that enables resilient economies and societies.

Justice Matters 2027 will bring this perspective to the centre of the global conversation.

A global platform for a new conversation on justice

Justice Matters will take place from 10–12 May 2027, bringing together voices from across the justice community. The event will culminate on 12 May with a plenary session at the Peace Palace in The Hague.

Justice Matters will bring together government and justice leaders, business leaders, development finance and private sector experts, policymakers, innovators, justice providers, civil society organisations, funders and thought leaders from across the globe for bold conversations on making justice a frontline strategy for economic resilience.

The ambition is to move the conversation beyond the justice sector alone. We aim to create a platform where diverse perspectives meet, evidence and solutions are shared, and new collaborations can emerge. Most importantly, we want to turn bold conversations into action.

Building on proven momentum

Justice Matters 2026, the second edition of Hiil's flagship global convening, brought together more than 500 participants, both in person and online, to explore how justice solutions can be scaled.

The conference attracted ministers of justice, judges, legal practitioners, senior officials from bilateral and multilateral donors, leading national and international civil society organisations, and other decision-makers and innovators from Africa, the Middle East, Latin America and the Caribbean, South Asia, North America and Europe.

A dedicated side programme expanded the conversation through sessions on prevention, commercial justice and informal justice systems.

Read the Justice Matters 2026 recap on our website.

Justice Matters 2027 will build on this foundation while broadening the agenda further: connecting justice with the conversations taking place around economic resilience, private sector development, investment, innovation and institutional trust.

From conference to a global movement

Justice Matters is more than an annual event. It is an opportunity to build a shared global agenda.

Realising this ambition requires collaboration across sectors. Governments, donors, businesses, development organisations, civil society and innovators each bring different perspectives, resources and capabilities. By bringing these actors together, Justice Matters can help identify what works, strengthen promising solutions and create the partnerships needed to move from discussion to implementation.

This is why we are inviting a select group of organisations to become partners of Justice Matters 2027.

We are looking for organisations that want not only to participate in the conversation, but to help shape it.

Reasons to partner with us

A partnership with Justice Matters offers an opportunity to help shape a global agenda while connecting with influential actors across justice, development, business and finance.

By partnering with us, you can:

→ Shape the global agenda

Help bring justice into wider conversations about economic resilience, inclusive growth, sustainable development and institutional trust. Partners can contribute perspectives, evidence and expertise that help shape the themes and discussions of Justice Matters 2027.

→ Connect sectors and perspectives

Justice Matters creates a space for actors who do not always meet around the same table. Engage with policymakers, justice leaders, funders, businesses, development practitioners, innovators, academics and civil society organisations, and explore opportunities for collaboration.

→ Showcase solutions and expertise

Share approaches, evidence and innovations that demonstrate how justice can contribute to more resilient people, businesses and economies. Through speaking opportunities, thematic sessions and the side programme, partners can help bring practical solutions into the conversation.

→ Build meaningful partnerships

Use the conference as a platform to develop relationships that can extend beyond the event itself, towards new programmes, investments, collaborations, policy initiatives and knowledge partnerships.

→ Engage decision-makers

Connect with a diverse international audience of senior decision-makers and influencers from government, development finance, philanthropy, business, civil society and the justice sector.

Partnering options

General sponsor Support the event by providing a financial contribution towards the realisation of the conference.	Impact level €10.000 • Recognition and logo visibility on the Justice Matters website and selected event materials • Curated introductions to conference speakers with special relevance to sponsor's interest • Recognition in pre-event communication posts • 3 Delegate passes to Justice Matters • Recognition as panel sponsor during the roundtables on 10-11 May	Gamechanger level €25.000 • Recognition and logo visibility on the Justice Matters website and selected event materials • Curated introductions to conference speakers with special relevance to sponsor's interest • Recognition in pre-event communication posts • 6 Delegate passes to Justice Matters • Recognition as panel sponsor at the plenary session on 12 May • Opportunity to nominate a subject matter expert for one of the panels • Recognition as host sponsor for speaker's dinner on the eve of the conference
Programme partner Contribute to the depth and impact of Justice Matters 2027 by supporting key speakers and creating space for deeper conversations on justice as the missing infrastructure.	Programme partnership • Recognition and logo visibility on the Justice Matters website and selected event materials • Opportunity to sponsor and support the travel and accommodation of key speakers • Opportunity to organise or co-host a specialised side-event on a topic relevant to justice as the missing infrastructure • Opportunity to showcase your organisation's expertise and engage participants in a focused discussion
Media partner Amplify the global conversation on justice and stability by bringing the insights, voices, and stories of Justice Matters 2027 to your audience.	Media partnership • Recognition and logo visibility on the Justice Matters website and selected event materials • Exclusive access to speakers and key insights • Opportunities for advance interviews with keynote speakers under embargo • Opportunities for a co-authored feature or Q&A • Opportunity for a live media slot during the conference • Opportunity to produce a post-event debrief or special feature

What partners gain

Depending on the nature of the partnership, organisations can benefit from a combination of:

- ➔ Visibility: Your organisation's name and logo will be featured across conference materials, including the official webpage, promotional publications, and relevant media engagements.
- ➔ Thought leadership: Through speaker sponsorships and side-event contributions, your organisation will be positioned as a leader in the field of justice and stability, influencing policy and practice.
- ➔ Strategic convening: Opportunities to host or co-host discussions around issues aligned with your organisation's priorities.
- ➔ Networking opportunities: Gain access to a diverse audience of funders, policymakers, innovators, academics, justice practitioners, civil society leaders, and media representatives, fostering valuable connections and collaborations.
- ➔ Knowledge and learning: Access to diverse perspectives, emerging practices and global insights on justice, resilience and development.
- ➔ Brand association: Align your brand with a timely and impactful global event addressing the role of justice in some of the defining economic and social challenges of our time.

Join the Justice Matters movement

The challenges facing economies and societies are increasingly interconnected. Addressing them requires more than stronger institutions in isolation – it requires new ways of thinking about how justice contributes to resilience, opportunity and sustainable growth.

Justice Matters 2027 offers a platform to make that shift.

We invite your organisation to join us as a strategic partner and help shape a global conversation that places justice where it belongs: at the heart of resilient economies and societies.

We look forward to exploring how your organisation can contribute to, and help shape, Justice Matters 2027.

For more information, please reach out to:

Zainab Malik, Senior Policy and Advocacy Advisor, zainab.malik@hiil.org

Anne Colenbrander, Senior Partnership Developer, anne.colenbrander@hiil.org