Quantitative Systems Pharmacology Conference 2026

After a successful conference in 2022, the quadrennial Quantitative Systems Pharmacology Conference (QSPC) will be hosted again in Leiden in April 8-10, 2026. QSPC is the leading European conference in quantitative systems pharmacology and mechanism-based modeling, and is the successor of the well-established “Noordwijkerhout” meeting. Insight in the program of the 2022 meeting can be found here: <https://www.qspc.eu/qspc2022>.

Program

The QSPC2026 will conference last for 2.5-days, and will include plenary sessions with oral presentations from invited leading speakers. The program is co-designed with an extensive scientific advisory board who are leaders in the field of QSP. Participants have the opportunity to submit and present scientific work in several posters sessions and/or as part of selected short oral presentations. Extensive space and time for networking is available. A dedicated exhibitor space is present and close to catering locations. The meeting will take place in the historic city center of Leiden, and is a short train-ride away from Schiphol airport. Organizing a pre- or post-meeting satellite workshop for interested conference attendees is possible.
